

Scott L. Ades

Scott L. Ades is Executive Vice President, Operations and Finance for Winebow, Inc. where he is responsible for Winebow's operations, financial reporting and analysis, and strategic initiatives. Winebow is a leading importer and distributor of fine wines. As an importer, Winebow is the leading importer of premium Italian wines in the United States and represents wineries from across Europe and South America. Winebow is also the largest fine wine distributor in the U.S. with operations based in the Northeast. As a distributor, Winebow represents a portfolio of wines from around the globe including many marquis domestic wines.

Scott is a seasoned senior manager with expertise in leading operations, creating and executing company strategy, creating new business initiatives, and leading mergers and acquisitions efforts. At Winebow, Scott has led a significant expansion and relocation of Winebow's distribution system and led the acquisition and integration of four businesses which have expanded Winebow's import portfolio and distribution footprint.

Prior to Winebow, Scott was a senior executive at Automatic Data Processing, Inc. (NYSE: ADP), where he held various senior management positions. Earlier in his career, Scott spent 10 years in investment banking at Lehman Brothers and Salomon Brothers working with financial institutions and technology companies assisting them with raising capital and acquiring or divesting businesses.

Scott received his B.A. in Economics and Psychology from Wesleyan University and his M.B.A. in Finance from Columbia Business School.
